

I am personally very concerned about the Special Religious Education ... DGR reform

I am an Australian born citizen educated in a Christian environment with a University Degree and two Postgraduate certificates.

Employed in the corporate world moved to several charitable organisations including Deaf Society of NSW and Aboriginal Legal Service in an HR role.

Both organisations each represent 3 percent of the total population ie 6 percent.

We must support the two groups as they face huge challenges of religious bias and racism. They good people.

The SRE programmes integrate solutions to religious and racial problems. An active program needing funding.

Let us not forget those who we can practically help which then strengthens Australia.
