Dear Sir

I have examined the issue of the Productivity Commission reviewing the Architects Acts in all States and Territories.

As a registered Architect and a past National and State President of the RAIA, I believe my long experience as an Architect in private practice equips me to very strongly support the view of the Architects' Board of Western Australia in its considered submission that registration of Architects be retained and that an appropriate model would be a Uniform Act across Australia, administered by State or Territory Boards.

The alternative will be a demise of the architectural profession as it now operates whereby the best interests of the community are being served by professionals whose appropriate qualification, ongoing training and experience is reflected in Registration.

Yours faithfully
